

SUFFS LAY SIEGE AT CUPID'S ALTAR FOR SAKE OF VOTE

No Wedding Bells Can Ring
To-day Till Bridegrooms
Hear Their Plea.

Seeds of woman suffrage mixed with flowers and wedding cake were sown among to-day's crop of brides at the Marriage Chapel in the Municipal Building.

Every bride that approached the altar to-day was waylaid by a bold band of woman suffrage party mounts and asked to take the oath of allegiance. At 9 o'clock this morning they descended upon the Marriage License Bureau, and after pinning votes for women buttons and daisies on the lapels of every employee's coat from City Clerk Scully himself to the official boothkeeper proceeded to prepare for the arrival of the brides.

The very first bride to be and her prospective husband gave the suffrage campaigners quite a shock.

Mrs. Edward S. Van Zile, gray-haired, motherly and soft voiced, approached and explained her mission. In one hand she held a small paste-board box, tied with golden ribbon. Inside was a cube of choice wedding cake. In the other was a yellow daisy, emblematic of the cause.

"Can I interest you in the noble cause of votes for women, my dear?" asked Mrs. Van Zile.

The bride-to-be reached out for the cake, sniffed it, tilted her nose and, wheeling with her husband, deliberately walked over to a table and ate the cake.

A bridal party of four from Ellis Island came next.

Mrs. Van Zile talked eloquently for five minutes and handed over a small box of cake to each bride. Deliberately they sought chairs and luncheon. When the cake was despatched one of the brides approached the suffragette table and asked for more.

"Do you believe in votes for women?" asked one of the suffragettes.

"Me no understand," explained the bride.

She got no more wedding cake.

In the majority of cases the brides came forward willingly and helped the suffragettes pin the emblematic daisy on their husbands' lapels. Some of them even made their husbands promise to work for the cause.

The suffragettes who worked on this morning's shift at the Municipal Building were Mrs. J. R. Fairchild, Miss Fannie Lawson, Miss Annie Doughty, Borough Chairman of Manhattan, and Mrs. John Humphrey Watkins of Mount Kisco, who brought in a truckload of flowers.

SUBWAY STANDS DRAW PROTEST FROM NEWSIES

Block Stations and Imperil Their Livelihood, Thompson Committee Hears.

William Merican, President of the New York Newsdealers' Association, complained to the Thompson Legislative Investigating Committee to-day about dangerous encroachments on subway platforms. The Ward & Gow Corporation, he said, has obstructed platforms by building booths five by twenty-eight and sometimes five by forty feet, in the stations.

"When the subway was first built," said the witness, "newsdealers were not allowed in the subway. Borough President McAneny gave us permits to put stands one foot wide and four feet long, fifty feet from subway entrances."

"The Ward & Gow Corporation soon began to operate newsstands in the subways. At first they were small portable tables. Now they have built permanent booths on the station platforms. They sell not only newspapers, but candy and stationery. They intend to take in cigars and cigarettes."

Senator Thompson interrupted the witness to say: "They'll be selling groceries next. Do Ward & Gow exercise a censorship—refuse to sell magazines they don't like?"

"Sure," replied the witness. "If they don't like it they keep it off the elevated and subway newsstands."

Monument to Lincoln's Sister.

ROCKPORT, Ind., June 21.—A monument for the grave of Sarah Lincoln Grigsby, a sister of Abraham Lincoln, was dedicated yesterday in Nancy Hanks' Park at Lincoln City, Ind.

Lincoln's mother is buried. The monument is a plain granite shaft. Several thousand persons attended the simple ceremonies.
